NEWS

Cluster Hiring Initiative Selections Announced

One of the largest active programs in the College of Education, Health, and Human Sciences (C EHHS) is the Volunteer 2023-25 Cluster Hiring Initiative.

In fall 2022, the College of Education, Health, and Human Sciences (C EHHS) launched the Volunteer 2023-25 Cluster Hiring Initiative. The College had designated K-12 education in the U.S. as their primary area of interest and fund domestic and international recruitment initiatives.

William T. Grant Foundation

The William T. Grant Foundation builds purposeful partnerships between state government, NGOs, universities, and community organizations to advance research and evidence-based practice on the Social Determinants of Health. More information can be found at the foundation’s website.

Kimberly Hill

Kimberly Hill is the Executive Director for Equity and Diversity within the Division of Diversity and Engagement. Her role involves diverse faculty, staff, students, and community members to understand and address their privileges and how they impact decision-making and outcomes in education and the broader community.

ORNL

The Oak Ridge National Laboratory (ORNL) is a US Department of Energy national laboratory located in the city of Oak Ridge, Tennessee, on the eastern border of Knoxville, Tennessee.

UTK Science Alliance

The UTK Science Alliance is an organization that brings together researchers, students, and other stakeholders to advance scientific research and innovation in the state of Tennessee. More information can be found at the Alliance’s website.

Christopher Rogers

Christopher Rogers is the Research Community Engagement Liaison at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville (UTK). His role involves helping researchers connect with communities and translate research findings into practical applications.

Ji Youn Yoo

Ji Youn Yoo is a professor in the Department of Communication at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville (UTK). His research focuses on the use of digital platforms in social movements and public communication.

Dr. Henry Taylor

Dr. Henry Taylor is a professor at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville (UTK) and the president of the American Indian Association. His research interests include Native American history and contemporary issues.