Spencer Foundation Accepting Conference Grant Applications

The Spencer Foundation is accepting applications for conference grants. These grants support small research conferences or focused symposia that engage academics, practitioners, and policymakers to develop small research conferences or focused symposia to explore critical issues in the service of education research that advances racial equity. Spencer encourages conferences that address substantive knowledge and practice, theoretical insight, or methodological expertise can be engaged in the service of education research that advances racial equity. The Spencer Foundation intends for applicants to bring together policymakers to develop small research conferences or focused symposia to explore critical issues in the service of education research that advances racial equity. Meetings of this type place a premium on extending knowledge and practice in the service of public and professional development. Successful applications will demonstrate a commitment to the development of knowledge and practice in the service of education research that advances racial equity.

The application deadline is October 11.

HBCU Partnerships

Welcome Kimberly Hill: The New Community Engagement Coordinator for CEHHS

Kimberly R. Hill, Professor, Department of History and Division of Diversity and Engagement Faculty Fellow at Austin-East Magnet High School in Knoxville, Tennessee, has been appointed Community Engagement Coordinator for CEHHS. Kimberly R. Hill, has been making a huge impact on the connection between the College of Education, Health, and Human Sciences and the Knoxville community. Kimberly R. Hill has been working to institutionalize an HBCU MOU. Do you have a current partnership with a historically black college or university? If so, we want to hear from you!

For the Fall 2022 semester, the UT College of Education, Health, and Human Sciences seeks to engage and explore the intersections of racial equity and innovative research methods by hosting a series of symposia and conferences that reach beyond deficit assumptions and documentation of educational inequality. Learn more and apply now.

Contact: Kimberly R. Hill, Professor, Department of History and Division of Diversity and Engagement Faculty Fellow at Austin-East Magnet High School in Knoxville, Tennessee, has been appointed Community Engagement Coordinator for CEHHS.