Books for Very Young Children

A Kids Book About Racism by Jelani Memory. A text-only introduction to the definition of racism, the impact on those who experience it, and how to identify it in the wild. Available for purchase as both a hard copy and an e-book (ages 5+, could be suitable for some older nursery children).

Hands Up! by Breanna J. McDaniel. An illustrated, joyful picture book that celebrates the ways that expression can be used, re-claiming it from the police. (Ages 4+)

Picture Books for Elementary Students

Something Happened in Our Town: A Child's Story about Racial Injustice by Marianne Celano, Marietta Collins, and Ann Hazzard. Two families--one White, one Black--experience the impacts on their communities of a police shooting of a Black man. Includes a discussion guide. (Suggested for preschool - 8 years old)

Not My Idea: A Book About Whiteness (in the Ordinary Terrible Things series) by Anastasia Higginbotham. This picture book takes an act of racist police violence as its jumping point, and explores whiteness, oppression, and racism from the point of view of a white child attempting to understand the injustice of the world around her. (Suggested for ages 8+ by some, ages 5+ by others)

Chapter Books (Middle Grade & YA)

Kinda Like Brothers by Coe Booth. A story of a kid and his relationship with his foster brother that features the impact of police brutality on the Black community. Available as an audiobook and paperback. (Ages 8+)

Harbor Me by Jacqueline Woodson. A story of 5th and 6th graders who meet at school to discuss what's bothering them. Their communities and families experience pain at the hands of racist systems, including incarceration, deportation, and police violence. (Ages 10+)

If You Come Softly by Jacqueline Woodson. A love story between two New York teenagers, one Black and one White. For spoilers & real-life parallels see this article. (Ages 12+)

The Hate U Give by Angie Thomas. The police shooting of an unarmed Black teenager is experienced through the eyes of the victim's childhood best friend, a 16 year old girl who moves between two very racially and economically different worlds: home and school. (Ages 13+)

Dear Martin by Nic Stone. Justyce McAllister is a good kid, an honor student, and always there to help a friend--but none of that matters to the police officer who just put him in handcuffs. Justyce looks to the teachings of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. for answers. (Ages 14+)

Dear Justyce by Nic Stone. The sequel to the #1 New York Times bestseller Dear Martin. Incarcerated teen Quan writes letters to Justyce about his experiences in the American juvenile justice system. Available September 29, 2020. (Ages 14+)
